Overview

Who is this guide for?

The Implementation guide is designed to assist assessors, trainers, auditors, registered training organisations (RTOs) and enterprises in delivering the HLT Health Training Package. It provides advice about the structure of the training package and its key features.

This implementation guide is also a mandatory and important deliverable under the *Standards for Training Packages (2012)*¹.

Background

In November 2012 the former National Skills Standards Council (NSSC)² developed a set of Standards for Training Packages, to ensure training packages are of high quality and meet the workforce development needs of industry, enterprises and individuals.³The Standards for Training Packages apply to the design and development of training packages for endorsement consideration.

Standard 1 identifies the products that must comprise a training package. This includes:

- Endorsed components:
 - Units of Competency
 - Assessment Requirements (associated with each Unit of Competency)
 - Qualifications
 - Credit Arrangements

- Non-endorsed components:
 - Companion Volume Implementation Guide
 - Other guides required by stakeholders.

On 1 January 2016, SkillsIQ was appointed as the Skills Service Organisation (SSO) with responsibility for supporting the Industry Reference Committees responsible for the HLT Health Training Package.

Much of original content of this document, developed by the former Community Services and Health Industry Skills Council, remains and amendments to this document are limited to the revisions made in relation to the Diploma of Dental Technology. These amendments include update to mapping and qualification and unit of competency lists. In addition, revisions have been made to update outdated links, and information.

² The functions of the National Skills Standards Council (NSSC) have been transferred to the Australian Industry and Skills Committee (AISC).

³ The Standards for Training Packages were endorsed by the former Standing Council for Tertiary Education Skills and Employment (SCOTESE), replaced by the COAG Industry and Skills Council.

Endorsed and non-endorsed components

Training packages consist of both endorsed components and non-endorsed components.

The endorsed components can be found on the national register www.training.gov.au.

Under the Standards for Training Packages, the non-endorsed components have been expanded to include companion volumes, including this Implementation guide also available on VETNet. This guide contains overview information about the entire Training Package, including a list of its units of competency, skills sets and qualifications. It also contains key implementation advice for RTOs using the training package.

Other guides and resources to assist implementation in specific industry sectors are available. These include:

- Learning strategies guide: describes potential strategies for working with diverse learners in each major industry sector, and possible learning strategies
- Knowledge strategies guide: identifies knowledge requirements of the units of competency, includes a glossary of terms, and provides information about potential resources as well as links to useful information

- Assessment strategies guide: provides guidance on implementation of the assessment requirements of the units of competency as well as general advice about assessment
- Foundation skills guide: provides guidance on identifying foundation skills and developing them in students in the context of the sector in which they work
- Work placement guide – provides guidance on how to set up work placements, the roles and responsibilities of RTOs and industry partners, how to ensure that the placements are good learning experiences for students and are run effectively in organisations.

Overview of most recent changes made to the training package

Pre-hospital and Out-of-hospital health care qualifications

The update of these Training Package Products has been carried out in response to industry feedback consolidated in the 2018–19 Ambulance and Paramedic Industry Skills Forecast.

The Ambulance and Paramedic Training Package Products cover an array of roles across the community that deliver fundamental Pre-hospital and Out-of-hospital health care services. Pre-hospital/Out-of-hospital health care services can involve emergency and non-emergency scenarios which play a critical role in injury/illness prevention and health promotion.

Care and support services can include the provision of urgent pre-hospital and out-of-hospital patient clinical care, as well as conducting patient assessments and prioritising patient care in accordance with national and jurisdiction-based clinical practice guidelines. The level of primary care provided by pre-hospital and out-of-hospital health care services can in some cases determine the long-term outcome of a patient, successfully minimise the need for treatment, and consequently help to minimise the demand for hospital and health care provider facilities

Since the existing training package products were last updated, paramedics are required to obtain a Higher Education Bachelor's Degree qualification. As a result, the focus of the Ambulance and Paramedic training package products in the HLT Training Package has been updated to address the skills needs of other support workers in the Pre-hospital and Out-of-hospital sectors as outlined. The IRC has agreed that these national qualifications continue to have relevance to first responders and support staff, particularly those in remote or offshore locations.

Updates in the structure and content of training package products were necessary to ensure the workforce is equipped with the skills needed to address the requirements of contemporary job roles.

Occupational violence, mental health & wellbeing and resilience have been identified by industry as significant workforce issues which needed to be addressed in training package products.

Packaging rules have been revised to include Units of Competency which now address communicating with people with challenging behaviours as well as managing personal stressors in the work environment. These units will reinforce key skills to assess potential incidents of violence and strategies to address them.

Certificate II in Indigenous Environmental Health

The Certificate II in Indigenous Environmental Health has been updated and endorsed now included in the HLT Health Training Package. A new skill set has been developed, HLTSS00068 Indigenous Environmental Health Support Work and nine existing units of competency have been updated to address the specific requirements of indigenous and remote environmental health contexts, to meet the requirements of the job role at a Certificate II level.

Industry consultation identified the need for delivery of knowledge and skills in terms of culturally appropriate and safe context for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. The need to develop a new skill set for indigenous Environmental Health Workers who work to support the environmental health needs of indigenous communities regarding water supply.

Units of Competency and associated Assessment Requirements are written in a manner that allows adaptability and flexibility in terms of reducing barriers for people in regional and remote communities to upskill and gain access to acquiring a qualification that aligns to health worker job roles within the Indigenous Environmental Health Sector.

Complimentary Health

The following qualifications from the complimentary health sector had an additional unit HLTINFCOV001 Comply with infection prevention and control policies and procedures, added to the elective bank:

- HLT42015 Certificate IV in Massage Therapy
- HLT52015 Diploma of Remedial Massage
- HLT52115 Diploma of Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM) Remedial Massage

This unit was added to deal with issues caused from the COVID-19

Previous Updates

First Aid units of Competency

Knowledge and performance evidence have been updated to ensure contextualisation can better address issues relating to mental health, vulnerable groups, and at-risk cohorts.

A key focus of the development work has been ensuring that the Units of Competency and associated Assessment Requirements are written in a manner that allows adaptability and flexibility in response to rapid technological developments. The broad manner in which the units have been written ensures that they can now be contextualised to meet the needs of different businesses and their processes and software. Advice for training providers in regard to the types of equipment, software and resources has been added to the HLT Health Companion Volumes First Aid Implementation Guide.

COVID-19 Infection Control

Four national infection control skill sets endorsed by the Council of Australian Government (COAG) Skills Council (Skills Council) are now housed in the HLT Health Training Package.

A new unit of competency HLTINFCOV001 Comply with infection prevention and control policies and procedures has also been developed, for inclusion in the skill sets.

These nationally recognised training products were developed in consultation with industry and will support delivery of infection control training for frontline workers in retail, food handling and the transport and logistics industries.

A series of resources has been developed to support registered training organisations deliver the new skill sets to different industry audiences. Contextualisation Guides for the retail, food handling and transportation industries have been developed to make it easier for training organisations to teach skills that learners can immediately apply in their workplace and are available at <https://www.aisc.net.au/content/communiques-and-training-package-updates>

The 2018 release of the HLT Health Training package addresses the identified skills gaps in the Dental Technology industry. To address this gap, the revised Diploma of Dental Technology includes skills for working with computer-aided design (CAD) and computer-aided manufacturing (CAM).

The 2015 release of the HLT Health Training Package reflects the significant changes that occurred across the health industry since the training package was last reviewed in 2007. Increased demand combined with less funding and the move to different funding models has brought about changes in the way some services are delivered and how the workforce is employed. Some of the major changes in service demand and delivery mean that workers are increasingly being required to:

- provide support in sub-acute or home based environments
- tailor care and support approaches to individual needs using a person-centered approach
- work in multidisciplinary teams
- support clients with complex needs
- work with remote supervision.

These major changes ultimately impact the skills and knowledge required of the health workforce and have meant that some job roles have had to be redesigned, and in some instances, new job roles have emerged. For example, allied health assistants (AHAs) require skills to work as part of a multidisciplinary model of care and to increasingly provide care in home based or community environments.

Accommodating industry needs and change, as described above, together with the requirement to align components to the 2012 Standards for Training Packages, has resulted in a major overhaul of the HLT Health Training Package. In the review work, particular emphasis was placed on:

- ensuring industry leadership in defining the job roles that the qualifications reflect
- capturing advice from the full range of industry and Vocational Education and Training (VET) stakeholders
- updating language, terminology and content to meet current service delivery models and changing employer and consumer needs
- updating content to address identified skill gaps and to promote workforce mobility within and between sectors
- maximising cross-sectoral commonalities
- minimising duplication and inconsistencies between qualifications, and removing content that does not relate to real work outcomes
- ensuring consistent alignment to the Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF)
- supporting best practice in assessment.

To support more consistent implementation of training packages by RTOs and best practice in assessment, the HLT Health Training Package clearly specifies when assessment must be undertaken in the workplace and provides requirements for minimum hours of work placement and guidance on assessment. The review work also involved separating the assessment requirements from units of competency (or standards of performance) to align with requirements under the 2012 Standards for Training Packages.

Imported and prerequisite units of competency in the training package

The following units of competency have a prerequisite HLTAID011 Provide First Aid

- HLTAID015 Provide advanced resuscitation and oxygen therapy

There is significant shared content between the CHC and HLT Training Packages, which is reflected in cross sector units in the areas of:

- advocacy
- anatomy and physiology
- communication
- diversity
- information management
- management and leadership
- infection prevention and control
- legal and ethical practice
- policy and research
- professional practice
- oral health
- work health and safety
- first aid
- language literacy and numeracy.

All HLT Health Training Package qualifications use these cross sector units whenever possible. A list of the cross-sector units is listed in Appendix C.

Maximum use has also been made of existing training package content, and many CHC or HLT units have been deleted as part of the most recent release because they duplicated units in other training packages.

Qualifications also include many units of competency imported from different training packages, in particular:

- BSB Business Services
- SIS Sport, Fitness and Recreation
- TAE Training and Education.

The imported units are also listed in Appendix C.

Key work and training requirements in the industry

The health industry and coverage of the HLT Training Package

Australia's health-care system is a multi-faceted web of public and private providers, settings, participants and supporting mechanisms. Health providers include medical practitioners, nurses, allied and other health professionals and hospitals, clinics and government and non-government agencies. These providers deliver a plethora of services across many levels, from public health and preventive services in the community, to primary health care, emergency health services, hospital-based treatment, rehabilitation and palliative care.

Australia's health workforce, like its health system, is large and diverse, covering many occupations, ranging from highly qualified professionals to support staff and volunteers. Health occupations comprise workers who diagnose and treat physical and mental illnesses and conditions or recommend, administer, dispense and develop medications and treatment to promote or restore good health.

The HLT Health Training Package is designed to reflect the full range of services, modes of delivery and client profiles that are characteristic of the health industry.

Characteristics of work in the health industry

Work in the health industry reflects a complex inter-relationship of duty of care, ethical behaviours and personal values in the context of provision of high quality service to clients.

The nature and principles of work in the health industry include:

- meeting duty of care, legal and statutory responsibilities (ethical behaviour)
- providing a non-discriminatory service
- providing a client-centered approach.

It is essential that workers have a sound understanding of the complex regulatory environment in which they work given the interaction between health professional registration legislation; consumer protection and health complaints legislation; public health legislation and the common law principles that apply to a treating practitioner/client relationship.

The HLT Health Training Package has been constructed to ensure coverage of these essential components. However, the primary responsibility for ensuring these components are addressed in training lies with the RTO and the assessor.

For example, workers in the health industry need a sound understanding of:

- duty of care, consent and the principles of negligence
- principles of contracts
- duty of confidentiality and privacy legislation
- acceptance of limits of personal competence and the need for appropriate referral of clients to other health care practitioners
- ethical practice issues, particularly inappropriate client relationships
- limits on practice and issues around boundaries, licensing and registration with other practitioners and health professions
- regulation of advertising and promotion of medical and health services under consumer protection legislation
- regulation of poisons and therapeutic goods
- regulation of infection control and public health legislation
- complaints resolution and applicability of health complaints legislation
- compliance, risk management and insurance
- general business and corporate governance principles as some workers run their own businesses.

Licensing, certification or legislation requirements

In the application section of all units of competency the following statement has been inserted:

'The skills in this unit must be applied in accordance with Commonwealth and State/Territory legislation, Australian/New Zealand standards and industry codes of practice.'

The RTO should ensure that when delivering the unit of competency all relevant legislation, industry standards and/or industry codes of practice are considered and adhered to, where they exist.

Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Workers

From 1 July 2012, Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Workers, working under the title of Health Practitioners, were regulated. Registration is based on the Certificate IV in Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Primary Health Care Practice and this requirement provides significant reason to ensure the registration qualification aligns with industry expectations and performance.

'Registration is a way of ensuring that only health practitioners who are suitably trained and qualified to practice in a competent and ethical manner are registered.' (Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Practice Board of Australia, Communiqué, December 2012).

In the interest of public safety, the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Practice Board of Australia highly recommends registration if an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Worker's role involves direct clinical care of patients.

For further information about the regulation standards and requirements, visit www.atsihealthpracticeboard.gov.au

Enrolled nursing

Enrolled nurses must be registered to practice with the Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia (NMBA) under the Australian Health Practitioners Regulation Agency (AHPRA). The reviewed qualification aligns to new proposed enrolled nurse standards of practice released by the NMBA.

The qualifications specify that:

'A graduate from a Diploma of Nursing program approved by the Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia (NMBA) is able to apply for registration with the NMBA as an enrolled nurse. Further information on registration is available at www.nursingmidwiferyboard.gov.au'

Dental prosthetics

The qualification specifies that:

'A graduate from an Advanced Diploma of Dental Prosthetics approved by the Dental Board of Australia is able to apply for registration with the Dental Board of Australia.'

Further information on registration is available at www.dentalboard.gov.au.

Dental assisting

There are specific licensing requirements that apply in areas of the use of radiation apparatus used in dental practice. A candidate must have completed an approved program of study to apply for and be granted a radiation license. Application for the radiation license is through the relevant State or Territory Authority.

The industry advice regarding sequencing of training and assessment for units of competency applicable to using and working with radiation in dental practice is proposed in the following sequence:

- HLTDEN007 Apply the principles of radiation biology and protection in dental practice
- HLTDEN008 Prepare to expose a prescribed dental radiographic image
- HLTDEN009 Produce a prescribed dental radiographic image

Pathways

Clear pathways exist within each sector and many units overlap between sectors, allowing pathways across sectors.

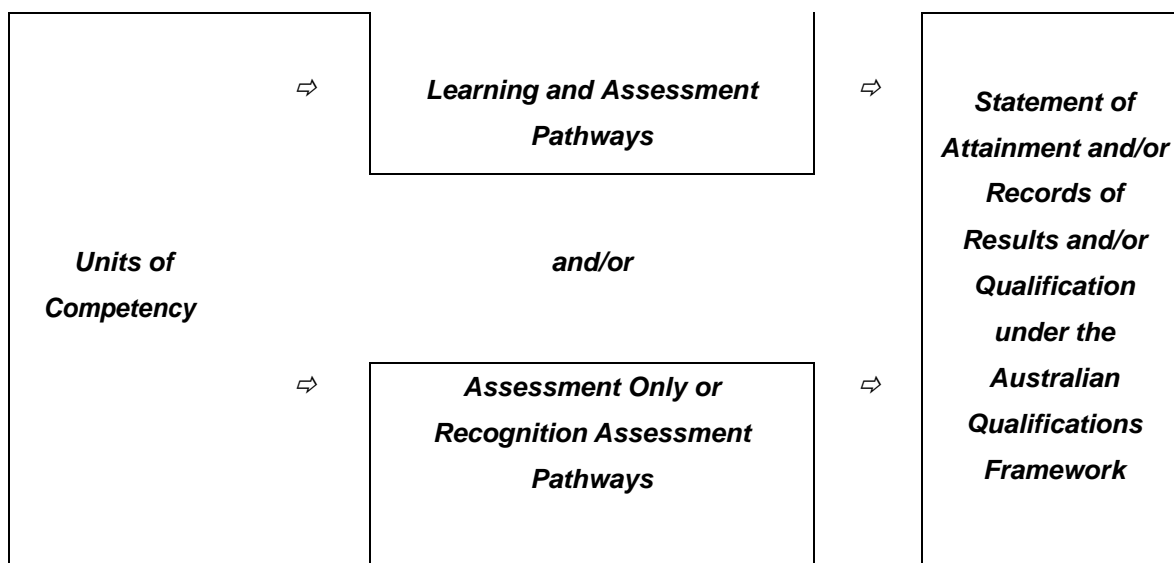

There are no prerequisites and qualifications with mandatory entry requirements have been limited to those where regulations apply, allowing flexible entry points that reflect entrants' knowledge, skills and experience.

Learning and assessment pathways

The units of competency in this training package may be attained in a number of ways, including through:

- formal or informal education and training
- experiences in the workplace
- general life experience
- any combination of the above.

Assessment leading to a qualification or statement of attainment may follow a learning and assessment pathway, an assessment-only or recognition pathway, or a combination of the two as illustrated in the following diagram.

Each assessment pathway leads to full recognition of competencies held. The critical issue is that the candidate is competent, not how the competency was acquired. For further details about assessment, refer to the companion volume - Assessment Guide.

The HLT Health Training Package has been designed to aid implementation of Australian Apprenticeships. Given the multiple entry points into the industry, all Certificate III, Certificate IV and Diploma qualifications in the HLT Health Training Package are suitable for achievement through an Australian Apprenticeship.

School Based Australian Apprenticeship programs are only appropriate when combined with work-based training and assessment. Work health and safety (WHS) issues and the need to assess some units of competency in the workplace must be addressed, but do not necessarily impede this pathway.

All Certificate I and Certificate II qualifications in the HLT Training Package are considered pathway qualifications and are suitable for a VET program for delivery to secondary students.

Best practice learning and assessment should be integrated (holistic), with assessment evidence being collected and feedback provided to the candidate at any time throughout the learning and assessment process.

Structured learning and assessment programs may be:

- group-based
- work-based
- project-based
- self-paced
- action learning-based
- conducted by distance or e-learning
- conducted involving practice and experience in the workplace.

Learning and assessment pathways usually incorporate a mix of formal structured training and structured workplace experience with formative assessment activities through which candidates can acquire and demonstrate skills and knowledge from the relevant units of competency.

For further information, refer to the companion volume - Learning strategies guide.

Assessment-only or recognition assessment pathway

Competencies already held by individuals can be formally assessed against the units of competency in this training package, and should be recognised regardless of how, when or where they were achieved.

In an assessment-only pathway, the candidate is assisted by the assessor to identify and provide quality evidence of their competency against the relevant unit of competency in line with the rules of evidence and principles of assessment. Aspects of this process may be conducted by the candidate and verified by the assessor, such as when compiling portfolios; or directed by the assessor, such as observation of workplace performance and skills application, and oral and/or written assessment. Where the outcomes of the assessment process indicate that the candidate is competent, structured training is not required.

In some units, for example the HLTAHW units of competency as listed below, additional assessment conditions are required and must be observed.

HLTAHW020 Administer medications HLTAHW071 Manage medicines in Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander primary health care	Assessment must be undertaken by a workplace assessor who has expertise in this unit of competency and who is: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a Registered Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Practitioner or: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a Registered Health Practitioner accompanied by an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander person who is a recognised member of the community with experience in primary health care.
All other HLTAHW units	Assessment must be undertaken by a workplace assessor who has expertise in this unit of competency and who is: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Worker or: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • accompanied by an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander person who is a recognised member of the community with experience in primary health care.

Occupational outcomes

Each qualification specifies the anticipated occupational outcomes. These are provided for all qualifications at Appendix D.

Mandatory entry requirements

Entry requirements were removed from most qualifications, at the time of the last review, except where there was evidence of a mandatory industry requirement for one job role to be held before commencing another. Graduate Certificate and Graduate Diploma qualifications may also have entry requirements. The removal of mandatory entry requirements is to ensure that qualifications stand alone, and this practice promotes equitable access and progression of learners.

However, it does not remove the responsibility of training organisations to ensure that applicants who wish to commence a particular course have the required skills and knowledge to successfully complete the qualification at that AQF level.

Mandatory work placement

A mandatory work placement has been included in several qualifications in this training package for the purposes of workplace based assessment. In the case of complementary health, this is expressed as clinic hours to reflect the use of student clinics in that sector. Industry strongly supports the use of work placements in the health sector for a number of reasons, such as:

- to strengthen the individual's experience of the workplace
- to support future expectations of performance in the workforce
- to develop practice skills and application of knowledge within the workplace, promoting stronger embedding of learning
- to provide exposure to real workplace situations and circumstances which cannot be replicated in a learning environment or simulation

Further, work placements can also help to prepare candidates for their assessment experiences. Where learners undertake learning and skills practice only in the classroom or simulated learning environment, and then come to the workplace only for assessment, this can prove challenging to the candidate – as they effectively encounter a new environment for assessment. Work placements, when integrated with learning, can be used for 'on the spot' assessment and for capturing a range of evidence to support the decision of 'competent' or 'not yet competent'.

In order to successfully conduct training and assessment in the workplace, the RTO must provide the learner and workplace supervisor with an agreed, structured learning and assessment plan that indicates the purpose of the work placement and the minimum requirements for training and assessment in the specified units of competency. The plan should also clearly identify training, monitoring and assessment roles and responsibilities of both parties, as required by Standard 1 and Standard 5.1 to 5.4 of the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015.

Work placements should always involve the appropriate supervision and guidance from both the specified individuals in the workplace and the trainers and assessors from the RTO. In sourcing an appropriate workplace, attention should also be paid to the availability of opportunities for the learner to observe, develop and practice the required skills, and the availability of appropriately qualified workplace supervisors.

The following hours of work placements are recommended for candidates undertaking the following qualifications:

Qualification	Recommended hours for a work placement across the core of a qualification
HLT20113 Certificate II in Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Primary Health Care	50 hours (VET in schools' restrictions may impact on this)

Note: While some qualifications do not stipulate a minimum work placement requirement for the delivery of the qualification, some of the units within these qualifications still require assessment in the workplace. Training organisations should ensure that they review the Volume of Learning appropriate to the qualification level as specified in the AQF. Further information is available at www.aqf.edu.au.

Where a worker has undertaken a qualification involving work placement, those hours will not mean a decrease in the hours required in the workplace for the subsequent qualifications if there is no overlap of core units. Further recommendations and advice about work placement can be located in the companion volumes – Work placement guide, Learning strategies guide and Assessment strategies guide.

Workplace assessment

Where workplace assessment of a unit of competency is not practical and is not specifically required by the assessment requirements, a simulated assessment environment (SAE) may be used to supplement assessment in the workplace. The SAE must simulate real life working conditions with all the relevant equipment and conditions of that working environment, including interactions with clients and co-workers. Please note some units state that assessment can take place only in the workplace and not in a simulated environment.

In reality workers have to perform the required skills as a component of multiple tasks, within a multi-disciplinary team and with interruptions, difficult clients and unexpected glitches - these conditions must also be replicated in the SAE.

First aid

Requirements for first aid courses, including refresher training, are dependent on both the State/Territory jurisdictional requirements as well as the industry sector. Safe Work Australia's model Code of Practice First Aid in the Workplace, March 2015, available at: <https://www.safeworkaustralia.gov.au/doc/model-code-practice-first-aid-workplace> references the nationally endorsed first aid units of competency from the HLT Health Training Package. It also sets the requirements for refresher courses for first aid and CPR.

Each jurisdiction has similar codes of practice based on the national model. The nationally endorsed first aid units of competency are the minimum requirement. Training organisations must check with each jurisdiction for approval of any other first aid courses in addition to those in the HLT Health Training Package. See the work health and safety (WHS) section below for details of each State/Territory regulatory authority.

Regulated industries may have their own legislation or requirements for first aid that sit over and above the standard WHS regulations. This may allow for approval of specialised first aid courses other than those specified in the HLT Health Training Package, for example for mining or electrotechnology. Training organisations need to check with the relevant regulators for those industries to find out their specific requirements in relation to first aid.

In addition, training providers must ensure they implement their training programs in line with relevant Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) guidelines for education and training (for example, Guideline 10.1 Basic Life Support Training). These guidelines are available online at the ARC website www.resus.org.au

A candidate who holds a first aid unit of competency – for example, HLTAID011 Provide first aid – either as a standalone unit shown on a statement of attainment or as part of a qualification can gain credit for the same or equivalent unit listed in another qualification or skill set, and can also use the unit to meet jurisdictional industry requirements for a job role.

A unit of competency such as HLTAID011 Provide first aid does not necessarily expire in 3 years; however, a unit can become superseded, and this will be listed on www.training.gov.au.

A person may be required by industry or jurisdictional regulation to undertake a refresher in CPR skills every 12 months and/or a refresher in first aid every 3 years and provide evidence to the organisation or employer that this refresher training has been undertaken to attain currency of the skills. Safe Work Australia has made recommendations to ensure the currency of skills of those providing CPR. These recommendations are for refresher training in CPR every 12 months and first aid currency every 3 years. Industry may require an employee to have the current unit of competency as listed on www.training.gov.au, see jurisdictional regulations on what is required by industry.

Work health and safety

All training organisations need to ensure that delivery of the work health and safety (WHS) units are contextualised to the relevant legislation in the state/territory in which they are training. Details about the relevant jurisdictional regulators are provided below:

Contextualisation of diversity, inclusion and Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander units of competency (HLTHIR)

Diversity, inclusion and appreciation of other cultures, including Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander culture, is a key part of all work in the health industry, where workers are frequently working alongside a diverse range of clients with varying needs.

The following Units of Competency focus on diversity and are included in the core of a number of qualifications:

- CHCDIV001 Work with diverse people
- CHCDIV002 Promote Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander cultural safety

For guidance on meeting the evidence requirements for the above units you could contact the following for details of organisations and ways in which relationships can be developed:

- national or State/Territory peak bodies for Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health
- national or State/Territory peak bodies advocating for Australia's culturally and linguistically diverse communities.

Examples of relationships that could be fostered by RTOs and developed by learners to provide evidence of competency include:

- a relationship with 'School of the Air' in Alice Springs to develop an educational support program for Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander children, or development of a healthy eating program for before and after school care services

- a relationship with the National Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisation to develop a health or education program for National Aboriginal and Islanders Day Observance Committee (NAIDOC) promoting community health or education
- cultural awareness development through involvement with mentoring programs that work with Aboriginal people to provide educational support.

Pathways and credit

The Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) provides a comprehensive, nationally consistent framework for qualifications in compulsory post-education and training in Australia. The AQF helps to provide consistency in the vocational education and training sector for all trainees, learners, employers and providers by enabling recognition of qualifications and Statements of Attainment. It enables learners to have flexible pathways than can cover more than one provider - pathways that are horizontal (that is, across AQF qualifications at the same level) and vertical (that is, between AQF qualifications at different levels) - and eliminates unnecessary and unfair barriers to AQF qualifications.

Currently there are no credit arrangements between qualifications in this training package and higher education qualifications.

Access and equity considerations

An individual's access to the assessment process should not be adversely affected by restrictions placed on the location or context of assessment beyond the requirements specified in this training package.

Good practice, training and assessment incorporates reasonable adjustments made to ensure equity in assessment for all candidates, including people with disabilities.

Adjustments include any changes to the assessment process or context that meet the individual needs of the person with a disability, but do not change or compromise competency outcomes.

Such adjustments are considered 'reasonable' if they do not impose an unjustifiable hardship on a training provider or employer.

When assessing people with disabilities, assessors are encouraged to apply good practice assessment methods with sensitivity and flexibility.

Foundation skills

'Foundation skills' is the term used to cover the Australian Core Skills Framework plus the Core Skills for Work Framework. There are 11 foundation skills:

- Initiative and enterprise
- Learning
- Numeracy
- Oral communication
- Planning and organising
- Problem solving
- Reading
- Self-Management
- Teamwork
- Technology
- Writing

In most units of competency where foundation skills are built into the unit content the following statement has been included under the foundation skills heading:

'Foundation Skills essential to performance are explicit in the performance criteria of this unit of competency'.

Where Foundation Skills are not explicit they have been listed under the Foundation Skills heading. For further information on foundation skills refer to companion volume - Foundation skills.

Advice on any health and safety implications in the industry

Where required, WHS issues have been addressed in units of competency in the HLT Health Training Package, and qualifications include WHS specific units.

Resource and equipment relevant to this training package

The resources essential for assessment of units of competency in this training package have been listed in the assessment requirements of individual units of competency.

Where units of competency require assessment in the workplace, the workplace must include the full range of equipment required to do the task. Simulated assessment environments (SAE) must also include the full range of equipment found in the workplace even if not specifically listed in the unit of competency being assessed.

Equipment and Resources required for HLTDET016 Design digital dental restorations and appliances using computer-aided design (CAD) and HLTDET017 Construct dental restorations and appliances using computer-aided manufacturing (CAM)

The Diploma of Dental Technology, includes two new units of competency. One in computer-aided design (CAD) and another in computer-aided manufacturing (CAM). These units have been written in a manner which allows for adaptability and flexibility in response to rapid technological developments. The units broadly reference materials, equipment and resources.

Industry has indicated the following equipment, materials and resources are commonly used, at the time of publication:

- Equipment:
 - Photogrammetry
 - CAD software able to open.STL files for:
 - full denture
 - partial Denture
 - crown and bridge
 - Implant (single unit or bridge)
 - orthodontics
 - splints
 - Scanner
 - Additive manufacturing:
 - 3D Printer
 - Subtractive manufacturing:
 - Miller
- Resources:
 - Glossary of Terms- Key terms and abbreviations used in CAD/CAM
- Materials:
 - Wax
 - PMMA
 - PEEK Glass ceramics
 - Zirconia to be fabricated
 - Cranio Maxilla Facial (CMF)

- CoCr
- Titanium.

Equipment and Resources for unit HLTENN007 Administer and monitor medicines and intravenous therapy

While the use of 'real people' for the purposes of administering medication intravenously is ideal, in areas where access is an impediment, satisfactory Performance Evidence can be demonstrated via the use of mannequins.

Legal considerations for learners in the workplace including on placement

Legal requirements that apply to specific sectors covered by this training package vary across each State and Territory and can change from time to time. Contact relevant State and Territory departments to check if legal requirements apply.

This requirement is specifically relevant to Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander health workers working with medications where different States/Territories have stringent requirements around the administration and management of medications.

Work placements should always involve the appropriate supervision and guidance from individuals in the workplace and trainers and assessors from the RTO and must adhere to required legislation that applies in the jurisdiction such as working with children checks if, for example, work placement is occurring in the context of child protection. Further information about work placements for learning is included in the companion volume - Learning strategies guide. For more information on these checks and how they apply to various jurisdictions visit www.nationalcrimecheck.com.au/

Assessor requirements

The HLT Health Training Package units of competency state:

'Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.'

ASQA-registered RTOs

ASQA regulates the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015. These revised standards came into effect from 1 January 2015 for new RTOs registered with ASQA, and from 1 April 2015 for RTOs already registered with ASQA.

All RTOs registered with ASQA are required to satisfy the 2015 standards. The ASQA website provides an online Users' Guide to the Standards for Registered Training Organisations 2015, which clearly outlines the requirements that apply to trainers and assessors in the VET sector under the revised standards. Information on the specific standards that apply to trainers and assessors can be found at <https://www.asqa.gov.au/standards/chapter-4/clauses-1.13-1.16>

WA TAC-registered RTOs

All RTOs, registered with Western Australia's Training and Accreditation Council (WA TAC), are now required to satisfy the revised standards. The WA TAC website provides a Users' Guide to the Standards for Registered Training Organisations 2015, which clearly outlines the requirements that apply to trainers and assessors in the VET sector under the revised standards. See www.tac.wa.gov.au

VRQA-registered RTOs

For those training providers regulated by the Victorian Registration and Qualifications Authority (VRQA) or those applying to VRQA to become a registered training organisation, the Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) will remain in place until such time as Victoria transitions to the arrangements for the new Standards. See: www.vrqa.vic.gov.au

Additional Assessor Requirements

In a small number of cases, there are additional assessor requirements that exceed those in the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Qualification Advice

Outcomes of Qualifications Removed from the HLT07 Training Package

The rationale for removal of qualifications was based on one or more of the following:

- similarity between units in broad and specialised qualifications
- zero or very limited use, including application in a single state or territory
- existing preference and practice to use the broader qualifications rather than specialised qualifications
- inappropriate qualification structure and / or titling
- significant crossover of units across qualification levels

The broad framework for retention / development of qualifications was as follows:

- That qualifications respond to an evidence-based workforce need and have a national vocational outcome
- That qualifications meet national policy requirements
- That qualifications support the acquisition of a broad range of knowledge and skills needed for a more flexible workforce

The information below outlines those qualifications that existed in the HLT07 Training Package but which have been removed in HLT Training Package. Note, in some cases specialised qualifications have been merged or re-structured to reflect changing industry practice and can now be achieved through named specialisations or targeted elective choices.

Qualifications removed due to minimal or no take-up

Removal of these qualifications is based on the fact that there has been minimal or no national take-up or application of these qualifications. In the majority of cases, there are no RTOs with these qualifications on scope or content does not have national applicability. Industry has questioned the relevance and usefulness of these qualifications in the Training Package. Based on industry consultation, and the extremely limited use of these qualifications, the following qualifications were removed from the HLT Training Package:

- HLT32012 Certificate III in Mortuary Theatre Practice
- HLT32112 Certificate III in Prosthetic-Orthotic Technology
- HLT41412 Certificate IV in Cast Technology
- HLT41512 Certificate IV in Hyperbaric Technology
- HLT41607 Certificate IV in Mortuary Theatre Practice
- HLT41712 Certificate IV in Neurophysiology Technology
- HLT41912 Certificate IV in Sleep Technology
- HLT43612 Certificate IV in Rehabilitation and Assistive Technology
- HLT43712 Certificate IV in Optical Technology
- HLT50712 Diploma of Hyperbaric Technology
- HLT50907 Diploma of Sleep Technology
- HLT51912 Diploma of Mortuary Theatre Practice
- HLT60812 Advanced Diploma of Neurophysiology Technology

HLT31512 Certificate III in Nutrition and Dietetic Assistance

This qualification has been removed from the Training Package. Relevant content has been merged into the Nutrition and Dietetic stream for Certificate IV in Allied Health Assistance.

HLT40412 Certificate IV in Health Supervision

This qualification has been removed and content merged with the Certificate IV in Health Administration due to the high level of overlap.

HLT41212 Certificate IV in Ayurvedic Lifestyle Consultation

This qualification has been removed and content upgraded to a Diploma based on the scope of knowledge and skills being more appropriately aligned to this AQF level.

CHC41812 Certificate IV in Pathology

The qualification has been removed from the Training Package as industry feedback identified the need for a single qualification that becomes the benchmark for quality pathology collection work in Australia. Industry consultation agreed that the Certificate III should be the minimum qualification, with significantly increased assessment requirements in units of competency.

Allied to the point above is the view that career pathways into supervision or training required individuals to undertake training in areas other than Pathology, rather than different clinical pathology skills. Hence qualifications in frontline management or training were required, rather than a Certificate IV in Pathology.

HLT42612 Certificate IV in Anaesthetic Technology

This qualification has been removed based on industry agreement that the Diploma qualification is required to work in this area.

CHC42812 Certificate IV in Kinesiology

This qualification has been removed based on industry agreement that the Diploma qualification is required to work in this area.

HLT42712 Certificate IV in Aromatherapy

HLT60907 Advanced Diploma of Aromatic Medicine

These qualifications have been removed from the Training Package based on the industry feedback that there is a lack of vocational outcomes at these levels. Work in this sector is better aligned to the Diploma qualification.

HLT51012 Diploma of Population Health

HLT51112 Diploma of Indigenous Environmental Health

These qualifications have been removed as there was no clear differentiation to their Certificate IV counterparts. Industry agreed that the outcomes of both the Diplomas could be satisfied by the Lead and Support Colleagues Skill Set in the CHC Community Services Training Package.

HLT60612 Advanced Diploma of Homoeopathy

HLT60512 Advanced Diploma of Naturopathy HLT61012 Advanced Diploma of Nutritional Medicine

HLT60112 Advanced Diploma of Western Herbal Medicine

These qualifications have been removed from the Training Package based on the industry decision that the work of practitioners in these modalities does not align to Advanced Diploma level and better aligns to Bachelor level qualifications.

HLT60307 Advanced Diploma of Paramedical Science (Ambulance)

This qualification has been removed from the Training Package as there was no clear differentiation to the Diploma of Paramedical Science. Industry agreed that advanced clinical skills could be met through a skill set.

Food Safety

It is recommended 'HLTFSE001 Follow basic food safety practices' be included when selecting other HLTFSE units.

HLT55118 Diploma of Dental Technology

Computer-aided design (CAD) and computer-aided manufacturing (CAM)

Two new units have been developed to sit within the Diploma of Dental Technology. HLTDET016 Design digital dental restorations and appliances using computer-aided design (CAD) sits within the core, and HLTDET017 Construct dental restorations and appliances using computer aided manufacturing (CAM) is packaged in the electives.

Wherever possible, industry preference is CAD and CAM are delivered together, however industry notes not all dental laboratories are using CAM to produce restorations and appliances and external milling centres are often used. It is further noted not all RTOs currently have the required equipment to deliver CAM and industry notes the high cost of purchasing technologies may be prohibitive for some providers.

It is industry recommendation that the packaging of CAM in the electives may need to be reconsidered at a later date, when dental laboratories have further transitioned towards CAM methods.

The Dental Technology Technical Advisory Committee recommend the delivery of the following units prior to HLTDET016 and HLTDET017:

- HLTDET004 Articulate models and transfer records
- HLTDET007 Construct removable acrylic partial dentures
- HLTDET008 Construct cast removable alloy partial denture framework
- HLTDET009 Construct crown and bridge structures
- HLTDET011 Construct ceramic and fixed restorations
- HLTDET012 Construct orthodontic appliances
- HLTDET013 Construct oral splints
- HLTDET015 Construct complete removable acrylic dentures and appliances.

English Language Proficiency

Industry has identified the need for a high level of English proficiency prior to entry into this qualification, particularly in relation to the delivery of CAD and CAM Units of Competency.

Industry strongly recommends training providers consider the English proficiency of learners in pre-enrolment Language Literacy and Numeracy testing.

The recommended English proficiency for domestic students is completion of year 12 and IELTS Level 6 for international students.
